About one-half of the work of revision has been done and several thousand changes have been reported.

Most of the removals have been from the profit of the children and shallow the profit of the children and others have departed from the city.

The arrest of White and Salyers on Monday night is thought by Johnston to have been a presonerical scheme of the gamblers. He says that Salyers had been in his employ gathering evidence against the county joints. The cases against the Gill in Blue and other women of her lik that were tried before Justice Stoble in Wellston were cried on exclusively by him.

The new Grand Jury law provides that the furors may be summoned by either the Sheriff or the Caunty Court, as the Cliquit Court may direct.

The preliminary hearings of White and Salvers will be held to-morrow morning before Justice Comphell at No. 6500 Odve Street road, unless a change of verue is applied for. As they are entrged with a felony they probably will be bound over to the Grand Jury, unless their cases are dismissed by the State's Attorney, who had employed one of them for private detective work.

It was reported in Clayton yesterday by Justice Stevens that the gambling dens near the German Village had closed since the present agitation began.
